Independence Day in Deadwood

The celebration of our nation's independence was first observed in Deadwood Gulch in 1876. This celebration not only marked the hundredth anniversary of our nation, but also provided hope and promise of a bright future for those living in Deadwood Gulch and the mining camps along Whitewood Creek. The following article includes excerpts from the July 8, 1876 Black Hills Weekly Pioneer newspaper.

"Hundreds of sturdy miners had gathered into the city the evening before, when a magnificent liberty pole—one of the finest specimens of our grand mountain forests—was erected in front of the platform prepared for the speakers, mounted with a beautiful gilded sphere."

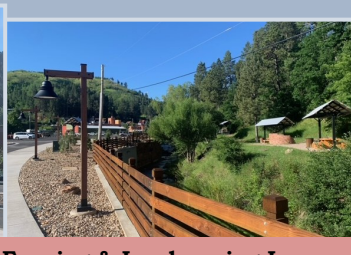

"In the early morning, amid deafening cheers and hill-quaking reports...the national colors—the glorious emblem of liberty and a higher civilization—were raised aloft and proudly unfolded their stars and stripes in the clear mountain air; and that banner will never be furled in the Black Hills..."

delivered thought provoking speeches, sermons and read the Declaration of Independence. In addition to singing patriotic songs, the participants provided a 100 gun salute, though, local newspapers reported a "continuous cracking of musketry" was heard all day throughout the mining camp and gulch. In the adjacent mining camps of Elizabeth City and Montana City, similar festivities were taking place to honor our nation's independence.

On behalf of the City of Deadwood and the Deadwood Historic Preservation Commission, we wish you a Happy Fourth of July!

July 19: History on the Lawn: Wakinyan Phéta Thiwáhe Čhaŋgléška Wačhípi (The FireThunder Family Hoop Dance Presentation) Alex and Camille FireThunder, along with their two sons and daughter, will present on the hoop dance, including its history and meaning amongst their family as well as among the Lakota/Dakota people. Alex will bring his drum and will be singing live for the rest of the family to dance to the heartbeat of the drum. When not dancing, the children will likely join him in singing both traditional and contemporary Lakota/Dakota songs. In addition to the hoop dance, they will share various aspects of Lakota/Dakota history, language, and culture with the aim of building bridges and strengthening human connections. Bring a lunch and enjoy the Historic Adams House lawn; 12p.m.; free for members and $5 for non-members. In case of rain, the lecture will be held at the Homestake Adams Research and Cultural Center (HARCC).

July 19 and 20: Haunted Rooms America – On Friday, July 19 join Haunted Rooms America for an unforgettable ghost hunt at The Brothel Deadwood, where the Wild West underbelly comes to life. Dare to face the voices of the past in the very rooms where apparitions of former workers and their clientele have been seen and heard, from ghostly figures on the staircase to EVPs capturing conversations lost in time. Saturday, July 20 step back into the lawless era of Deadwood and brave the haunted halls of the Adams House, where the restless spirits of the Wild West linger, awaiting those daring enough to confront the town's tumultuous history and its paranormal present. Join Haunted Rooms America for a real ghost hunt that promises to immerse you in the thrilling, eerie legacy of one of the most historically rich and paranormally active locations in the U.S. For more information, contact support@hauntedrooms.com.
